

Advance Driver Assistance System (ADAS) Customer Acknowledgment Form

Your windshield is fitted with a forward-facing camera linked to an advanced driver assistance system. Some vehicle manufacturers require a recalibration of the camera system after a windshield replacement. You must check with the vehicle manufacturer in order to determine whether the camera system must be calibrated. If so, you must go to the dealership (or other qualified specialist) to have your camera system recalibrated as soon as possible after the replacement of your windshield.

NOTE: The camera system may not operate properly until it has been recalibrated. Some camera systems have a warning symbol, or a message MAY appear, if the system is not operating properly. Therefore, you should not rely on the operation of the camera-link system until the camera system has been recalibrated.

I acknowledge that after the windshield is replaced, the camera system may not operate properly. In which case I should not rely on the operation of the camera system until it has been recalibrated. I further acknowledge, understand and agree that it is my sole responsibility to ensure that the camera system has been recalibrated after windshield replacement and I hereby hold harmless the independently owned and operated Glass Doctor[®] franchise and its franchisor, Synergistic International LLC, from any liability arising out of or related to the camera-link system after the windshield replacement.
